■ SRDC Items of Interest

- SRDC Releases Southern Region Information Toolkit

The data you've been searching for is now at your fingertips! A new site, the result of a partnership among the SRDC, Mississippi State University Extension Service and the Delta Data Center, provides instant access to a wealth of data on areas within the Southern region. In the Southern Region Information Toolkit, you'll find a wide variety of economic, demographic and social indicators that can be used by organizations and agencies at the local, state and regional levels; various profiles, historical trends and tools for determining changes in economy and job growth in Southern region areas; specific data broken down by county, state, region and nation; the option to examine data by the metropolitan, micropolitan and noncore-based status of counties in your state or in the Southern region. See for yourself at <http://srit.srdc.msstate.edu>.

■ National Items of Interest

- Carsey Institute Releases Report on Predatory Lending in Rural America

A new brief by the Carsey Institute at the University of New Hampshire examines predatory mortgage loans and the harmful impact they have on rural homeowners and their communities. The report finds that minorities and low-income people are more likely to fall victim to higher-cost loans. The brief includes recommendations for policy changes at the state and federal levels, as well as advice on identifying and avoiding predatory loans. The report is available on their website at <http://www.carseyinstitute.unh.edu/documents/PredLending.pdf>.

- eXtension Launches HorseQuest Site

extension has launched the first of eight Community of Practice websites, HorseQuest. HorseQuest provides Internet visitors with reliable and up-to-date horse information through a knowledge base of commonly asked questions that have science-based, peer-reviewed answers. In addition, online lessons use self-paced learning objects to help users learn more about specialized areas of equine science. The additional eight communities, dealing with topics ranging from financial security, fire ants, disaster response, parenting, rural entrepreneurship, horticulture, and wildlife damage management, are set to come online in the next several months. All will feature similar attributes of Frequently Asked Questions, Ask the Experts, news, events, and learning modules. For more information visit the extension site at <http://extension.org>.

- NACDEP Becomes a Member Organization of JCEP

The National Association of Community Development Extension Professionals (NACDEP) joined the Joint Council of Extension Professionals (JCEP) in August 2006. NACDEP is dedicated to improving the visibility, coordination, professional status, and resource base of community and economic development extension programs and professionals. JCEP is a partnership of extension professional organizations focused on strengthening the efforts of the member organizations and doing what each cannot do effectively alone. Together, JCEP and NACDEP will strengthen communication and collaboration among community and economic development extension professionals and across the Cooperative Extension System. For more information, visit the NACDEP site at <http://nacdep.net>.

- New Issue Briefs Available on Rural Society

- Pew Hispanic Center Releases *The Changing Landscape of American Public Education: New Students, New Schools

The Changing Landscape of American Public Education: New Students, New Schools, a new report from the Pew Hispanic Center, examines the intersection of two trends that have transformed the landscape of American public education in recent years: a rapid increase in enrollment and a surge in opening new schools. The report describes the racial and ethnic components of enrollment growth at various levels of the K-12 system, the composition of enrollment in newly-opened schools as well as older schools still in operation, and the impact of the rapid growth in Hispanic enrollment. Detailed statistics at the state level are also provided. The report is available on the Center's website at <http://pewhispanic.org/reports/report.php?ReportID=72>.
